PUMPKIN SHOW MAY BE TALKED IN CHINA

Circleville's Pumpkin Show has been talked in every state in the union, now the Chinese are probably obtaining some information about big pumpkins.

T. D. Krinn, veteran show director in charge of amusements and music, has received two cards recently from Bee Kyle, now playing in China.

COUNTY FARMER PAINFULLY HURT

George Seymour Dragged
Under Corn Planter

George Seymour, 69, well known Pickaway-twp farmer, was painfully hurt Friday afternoon when he was caught in a corn planter and dragged several hundred yards across a field. The accident happened when his team of horses became frightened and ran.

He was treated at his home by Dr. E. L. Montgomery.

Mr. Seymour lives on Route 23, three miles south of Circleville.

OFFICIAL STATE COUNT DELAYED SEVERAL DAYS

COLUMBUS, May 16.—(UP)—Secretary of State George S. Myers said today the official statewide count of primary election returns would not be completed by his department until next week. The large ballot and the number of candidates in each race has complicated the official tabulation, he said.

Prison Break Leader Held

CLAUDE PUGH

Claude Pugh Surrenders as Posse Closes in; Other Captures Near

McALESTER, Okla., May 16.—(UP)—Claude Pugh, said to be the "brains" of a bloody break at McAlester state prison, surrendered to a posse near Savanna, Okla., early today.

He was the third convict captured of the eight who escaped after a riot at state prison in which C. D. Powell, prison brickyard superintendent, was slain.

Pugh was returned to the penitentiary and placed in solitary confinement. He surrendered begging officers not to shoot him. Sergeant Robert Bell said.

Warren Roy W. Kenny said he was informed capture of some of the band of five still at liberty was imminent.

The search spread over four counties.

Feeling Runs High
Officers were given "no quarter" orders. Feeling ran high over the slaying of Powell, who killed 14 convicts tied in a car they commandeered.

Officers were on the trail of Claude Beavers, who with Claude Fugate and Pugh assertedly engineered the mass escape.

The 15th person to encounter the fleeing convicts, an unnamed farmer, reportedly gave the tip that led to Pugh. The convict was surrounded in a farmhouse two miles west of Savanna by a posse hastily organized by Jesse Dunn and John Russell, prison officers.

The five still sought are Beavers, Fugate, Jess Cunningham.

The burglars broke a window on the west side of the Given service station and obtained $15 in a money changer in the office.

The burglars were apparently interested in cash only as no other articles were reported missing.

LAWYER FACES SMITH CHARGE

Henry Ross Surrenders as Grand Jury Votes Blackmail Indictment

NEW YORK, May 15.—(UP)—A. Henry Ross, an attorney, and brother of Dr. Maxwell Ross, Brooklyn political leader, surrendered today at the district attorney's office on an indictment charging him with aiding in the blackmailing of $4,900 from Alfred E. Smith, Jr.

Ross was indicted yesterday with Max D. Krone, a private detective, on complaint of the former governor's youngest son that they extorted money and notes from him on the threat of exposing him in an affair with a young woman, Catherine Pavellic, 25.

Smith said that he handed over about $2,000 in cash and $4,000 in promissory notes but that some of the notes are still outstanding despite nine judgments obtained against him in municipal court.

Hastings explained that Ross allegedly was involved in the $1,500 payment when he signed a release for a threatened suit against Smith in behalf of Miss Pavellic.

Smith, it was said, charged that the $1,500 was in payment of fees and expenses allegedly due Ross as counsel for the young woman.

FLORIDA JUDGE FREES POLICE IN LASH TRIAL

BARTON, Fla., May 16.—(UP)—Judge Robert T. Dewell, presiding over the celebrated Florida lash trials, today completely exonerated former Tampa Police Chief R. G. Tittsworth and Robert Chappell on directed verdicts and ruled out three of four counts against five other policemen-defendants.

Judge Dewell ruled that information against C. A. Brown, C. W. Carlisle, John P. Bridges, F. W. Switzer and Sam E. Crosby were defective in the first three counts. The counts he quashed were conspiracy to kidnap Eugene F. Poulton, conspiracy falsely to imprison him and false imprisonment.

The charge of actually kidnapping Poulton, Judge Dewell left to the discretion of the jury and ordered Pat Whitaker, chief defense counsel, to proceed with his presentations.

Methodists May Evade Stand on Birth Control

Conference Near Adjournment Without Action on Much-Discussed Social Service Question

COLUMBUS, May 16.—(UP)—The general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church moved today toward possible adjournment Tuesday with the controversial social service issue still undecided and a pronouncement on birth control unlikely.

Flooded with mail and telephone calls, a subcommittee recommended to the state of the church committee that no recommendation as to the church's stand on birth control be made by the conference. The larger committee voted 64 to 4, to submit none.

John W. Langdale of New York, Methodist book editor and subcommittee chairman explained the negative recommendation.

"The hectic atmosphere created by queer organizations and individuals who urged an affirmative stand and apparently planned to profit by it made us afraid that any statement would be misunderstood by them. Our people might feel we were making the matter too important."

Langdale said that while there was sentiment for birth control within the church, his committee felt it is a "major responsibility of Protestant Christian Churches to recognize the importance of reproduction rather than birth control so that good blood might not be wasted."

Dr. John M. Springer of Elizabethtown, N. J., for 26 years a missionary in Rhodesia, was chosen missionary bishop to Africa, a newly created position, on the third ballot, last night.

FARMER BELIEVES HUGE SOW TAKEN BY THIEVES

Harry Baum, living near the Franklin-co line in Harrison-twp, reported to the sheriff's department Friday a 300-pound Hampshire sow was missing from his field.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff investigated the report. The hog is believed to have been stolen as no break in the fence could be located where the hog could have escaped from the field.

SIX WHITE MEN SHOT

Dispute Over Property
to Father; Battle
Refused

GORDONSVILLE, Va., May 15.—(UP)—Two negroes slain by sheriff, wounded six other white men, held off a posse numbering up to 5,000 men in a six-hour gun battle, and died finally in a barrage of machine gun bullets to their blazing home early today.

Two hours later, after the town had cooled enough to permit a search, members of the posse raked among the ruins and covered one of the bodies with a torn and cut up piece of a blanket. The body of the other was carried off at midnight.

The body of the slain negro was found in a ditch about 100 yards from the scene of the battle. It was found with the hands of the victim bound behind his back and a few remaining fragments of a dismembered body.

Troopers in Fight
State troopers and posse members fought through the ruins of the town, which was left a smoking ruin. The bodies of the slain negroes remained in the street.

The battle began after a dispute over property between the two negroes and a white man. The negroes refused to leave the town.

The battle lasted for several hours. The posse members were armed with rifles, shotguns, and machine guns.

The posse members were from various parts of the state. They were led by a white man named [Name].

RUSSELL IMLER, Southern Ohio Electric Co. salesman, was eloquent about the merits of a certain vacuum cleaner, but the woman of the house wasn't impressed. She suggested that he talk less and show her what the machine could do.

He took off his coat, fitted up the cleaner, thrust his arm into the chimney of the big fireplace and brought out a big handful of soot, which he scattered over the parlor carpet. He then shoveled some ashes from the grate and sprinkled them over the rug, adding a big handful of soil from the garden. Then Russ smiled and rubbed his hands.

"Now," he said, "I'll show you what this vacuum cleaner can do. You'll be surprised, madam. Where's the electric switch?"

"Switch?" echoed the woman, "We use gas."

Higher Honey Prices Seen

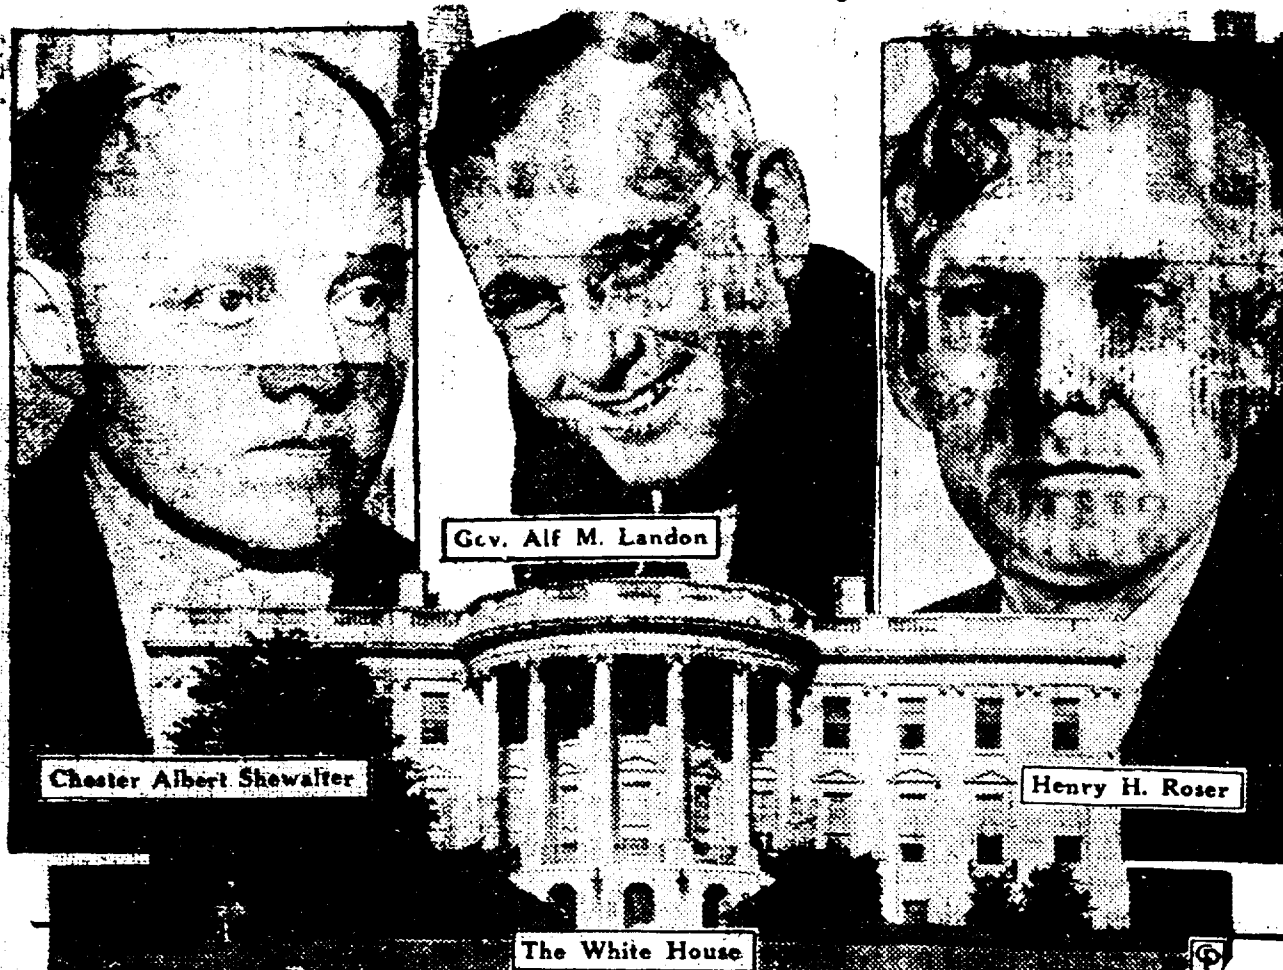

LANSING, Mich. — Those who like wheat cakes and waffles with honey may expect to pay slightly higher prices for the delicacy this year, according to Michigan beekeepers. The $2,000,000 Michigan production may be cut as much as $1,000,000 because the weather destroyed many bees.

Old Grist Mill Unearthed

FOSTORIA. — Two stone grinding wheels, used in a grist mill a century ago, were unearthed by excavators here. The wheels, of grain burrs, are of hard stone, five feet diameter and six inches thick.

Other Kansans Running

Colonel Roser, Running on Commonwealth Ticket, and Chester Shewalter, Head of Nationalist Party, Look With Eager Eyes Toward White House Even if Parties They Head Are Obscure

Governor Alfred M. Landon, a leading possibility for the Republican presidential nomination, may be surprised to learn that the other two Kansans pictured above also are presidentially discussed—but by parties not generally known.

TOPEKA, Kans. — This campaign year appears to have an especial attraction to Kansas. Not only because Gov. Alfred M. Landon is one of the leading contenders for the Republican presidential nomination, but because there are two other avowed presidential candidates in the Sunflower State. The lineup today stands as follows:

Governor Landon, budget balancing chief executive, who already has the state's Republican delegation of 18 votes solidly behind him.

Colonel Henry H. Roser, of Wellington, Kas., running at the head of the American Commonwealth party. He formerly lived in Los Angeles and in his announcement stated he was getting into this year's campaign at the instigation of many of the Townsend old age pension clubs.

Chester A. Shewalter, of Belle Plaine, Kas., former Harvey system news "butcher," who announced his candidacy at the head of the All-American Nationalist party, which has a platform calling for "jobs for all at a living wage."

From Same County

Shewalter and Roser are from the same county—Sumner, not so far from Governor Landon's home county, Montgomery. Landon's home town is Independence. And independence in the form of liberty is what Shewalter most desires, he declared in his announcement.

Colonel Roser stole away to Wichita recently to wed Miss Kathryn Montville Price. "Since I decided to try to be the country's next president," Colonel Roser said, in explaining his "elopement," "I decided there also should be a candidate for the chair of first lady. The bride is a talented violinist."

Running for public office is not new for Roser. He was one of the founders of the National Liberty party—in existence from 1896 to 1904—and ran for vice president on its ticket in 1900. He was a candidate on the Democratic ticket for United States senator from Arizona in 1904. The irony of it all is that despite his consistent candidacy he never has held public office.

Ex-Character Actor

He moved to California in 1905 and practiced law. In 1916 he was candidate for supervisor of Los Angeles county, and in 1917 he sought the mayorship of Los Angeles. In 1918 he ran for the California governorship. He relates, too, of being a character actor in Hollywood for 16 years. Roser says the two "most important planks" in his party's platform are old age security and prohibition of child labor. Other planks include public ownership of a natural resources and utilities; recall of all tax exempt bonds; abolition of the federal reserves system, "and above all, we believe in the supremacy of human rights."

Roser was born in St. Louis, Oct. 27, 1863, (birthday anniversary of the late President Theodore Roosevelt.)

Candidate Shewalter is a native Kansan, as is his "First Lady," Edna.

"We have two children," Shewalter remarks proudly. "They are Dean, nine, and Eleanor, six. We sure have pleasant anticipation that they will outrank 'Sis' and 'Buzzie' Dall in publicity emanating from the White House after we get there. We hope that Eleanor will capitalize a bit on her name."

If Candidate Shewalter is "kidding" he doesn't talk like it.

In the Stars?

Shewalter was born in Eureka, Kas., Feb. 12, 1889. The fact that Shewalter was born on the same day of the month as President Lincoln and in the same year as Adolf Hitler leads him to believe that if he is at all successful there may be something to the things the astrologers forecast at times.

He is the son of a Civil war veteran and his grandfather was Major Elias Shewalter who had his troops at Fort Leavenworth, Kas., at the close of the Civil war. His father, Samuel Shewal-ter, opened the first coal mines in Kansas, near Fall River.

He tells of having spent almost two decades in the study and investigation of politics and finance. He also contends he originated the idea of nationalization of silver and is the author of the "American ideal single tax plan," which is the basic plank of the All-American Nationalist platform, on which he is running.

The other basic plank on which he will seek the presidency, calls for an equalization of import tax to "protect the American laborer and industrialist from cut-throat world competition."

The All-American Nationalist party headquarters are in Flint, Mich.

MANY SCHEDULED FOR TRIP TO HESSEL, MICH.

Plans and arrangements were completed this week for the eleven day vacation trip to Hessel, Mich., a small town located in the upper peninsula on Lake Huron, by Coach Landrum.

The schedule of the tour leaving Circleville on June 8 and returning June 18 includes a tour through the Reo Automobile factory and an inspection of the oil fields near Clare, Michigan. Recreation ball, swimming, boating, and fishing will predominate during the week's stay at Hessel, Michigan.

Announcement was first made that one trip accommodating 25 boys would be made. Because many applications have been received, a second trip will be conducted if fifteen additional reservations are made. Thirty boys sent in their applications to make the vacation tour. Only one trip will be made if 35 boys make the trip.

Parents of high school boys wishing their boys to make the trip are urged to contact Mr. Landrum within the next week.

The first and last nights of the journey will be spent in cabins near Lansing, Michigan. All necessities will be furnished except personal clothing.

If a second trip is to be made, the date will be June 22 to July 1. Deposit for the trip should be forwarded to Mr. Landrum before the end of next week, with full payment to be paid before June. The trip is being conducted under the sponsorship of Coach Landrum.

NOTICE

A meeting of the boys wishing to make the Michigan trip sponsored by Mr. Landrum, and their parents, will be held Wednesday evening May 20, at 8 in the high school building at which time the boys are to choose their cabins and details of the trip are to be explained. Mr. Landrum urges that at least one parent of each boy attend the meeting.

Eastern Flood Affects West

PORTLAND, Ore. — Eastern floods interrupted this city's transportation replacement plans. Forty new buses and 120 trolley coaches will be put into service here several months later than scheduled because high water has halted work at the Pennsylvania factory.

CONLEY'S COVE, N. S.

The "Conley's Cove" vessel, raked by fire, was washed ashore here. All traces of the name were obliterated and efforts to establish the identity of the ill-fated vessel have failed.

People could be taught to conserve the soil. All we need is enough magazine ads showing pretty girls doing it.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT IS DISCUSSED BY DEBATERS

All religious and ethical codes condemn killing. Capital punishment is in reality legalized murder. Capital punishment has failed to abolish murder, therefore let us try another plan.

The suggested plan would consist of life sentence for all persons convicted of murder. No pardons would be granted to these individuals, except in cases where they were later found to be not guilty. Thus no innocent persons would be put to death and yet society would not be in danger.

Thus ran the argument of Eugene Dewey and John Rankin affirmative debaters on the question "Resolved: That Capital Punishment Should Be Abolished." This subject was debated by members of the Circleville High Debate club at their Tuesday afternoon meeting.

Opposing Rankin and Dewey were William Ammer and Alyce Brown.

The negative stated that capital punishment found moral justification in the Old Testament. Abolishment of capital punishment would stimulate lynching. Crime, especially murder, would increase if capital punishment was no longer the penalty for our major crimes.

Mr. Watts, who judged the debate awarded the decision to the affirmative team on a point basis of a narrow margin.

Mr. Watts stated that he judged the debate upon delivery, content, and rebuttal.

Mr. Jewett, club advisor, gave a short criticism of the debate.

The club adjourned after a motion had been passed to allow the executives committee to set the date for the next meeting.

CIRCLEVILLE FACULTY ENTERTAINED TUESDAY

Forty five members of the faculty of the Circleville school system attended a party at the American Hotel Coffee shop, Tuesday evening.

The evening's activities consisted of a dinner followed by games. At the close of the evening Miss Hitler was presented with a lamp as a gift from the Circleville Teacher's association in recognition of her approaching marriage.

Mr. Day received a similar gift from the association as a wedding present.

Mr. Jewett and Mrs. Lamb received bridge prizes for the highest scores in the men's and women's divisions respectively.

Miss Gene Rader was chairman of the committee in charge of the affair. Mr. Day, Miss Kirkpatrick, Mr. Landrum and Miss Marion constituted the remainder of the committee.

JONES IS TENTH SENIOR TO SPEAK TO ROTARY CLUB

Last but by no means the least of the ten Senior boys to speak to the Rotary club on "What Rotary Means to Me" was Burn Jones who addressed the club Thursday.

Burn spoke to group on Civic Pride and lauded the men on their interest in the works in Circleville, and the surrounding community.

This year the Rotary club inaugurated a new plan in which they selected ten Senior boys, each of whom attended three meetings of the club and at the third spoke on "What Rotary means to me."

This plan proved of value not only to the ten boys but also to the men of the Rotary.

The ten boys who were the Rotary speakers were, in the order of their appearance before the club, John Griffith, Dick Plum, George Rader, Richard Harman, James Henderson, Fred Grant, Willard Friley, John Jenkins, Hilare Haecker and Burn Jones.

SENIOR DANCE PLANS ARE BEING COMPLETED

Plans for the annual Senior dance to be held June 5 are being completed by a committee of twelve.

On the committee are Morton Reichelderfer, chairman; general Marjorie Mader, John McGinnis, Anne Vreborst; place, Jim Henderson, Harold Holland; Band, T. L. Davis; Decorations, Richard Harman; decoration, John Griffith; Mary Mavis and Mary E. Groce.

Hilare Haecker, president of the class, has charge of the occasion. This is not considered a school dance as it will be held the night after commencement.

STOGE ELECTION

It was announced by President Fred Grant that the "Stooge" would elect next year's officers at their meeting next week. Grant also announced that the final decision on the long postponed senior night will be decided at this meeting. The meeting will be held at Rich Harman's house.

EDITORIAL

A great problem which is confronting our modern world is the dangers that prevail on the city streets and state highways. The figures of deaths resulting from automobile accidents mount higher and higher each year. Cars running together, drunken drivers running into stationary objects and, worst of all, hit-run drivers running down innocent pedestrians. The latter is the problem with which the majority of us are concerned.

The children of the lower grades are taking their lives in hand; literally. When they go to and from school. Signs are posted on almost every street corner for drivers to go slow but they very rarely pay any attention to them.

A safety measure has been used for a good while that can only be said to possess good merits. Boy Scouts have been instructed thoroughly about traffic rules and regulations. The "cream of the crop" has been selected and stationed at various schools. They are given full authority by the mayor of the city to stop all cars until the children are safely across.

We should be indebted to these boys for their time and well spent efforts and it seems only just that we should obey their signals.

DR. F. R. HARRIS SPEAKS IN ASSEMBLY MONDAY

Professor F. R. Harris, superintendent of the Greenfield schools, gave an interesting address in an assembly Monday afternoon concerning his trip through the South American countries during the past summer.

Mr. Harris told of the beauties and customs of the country. The hazards of winter caused much delay and hardship during the trip, since the South American countries were having winter weather. He described the customs and the living conditions of the Incas, Indians of South America. "An impressive description of the Andes mountains as seen from the airship" was also given by Professor Harris.

Having been connected with the Greenfield schools for many years Mr. Harris has made journeys to all corners of the world. He makes a trip each summer to some interesting part of the world.

Mr. Harris was the first person from the United States to book a round trip passage on the Hindenburg, new German dirigible, to Berlin this summer.

JUNIOR GIRL RESERVES ENTERTAIN MOTHERS

Friday evening the Junior Girl Reserves entertained their mothers at a banquet given at Wardell's Party home.

After a delicious meal the president, Ruth Robinson gave a welcome to which Mrs. W. W. Robinson responded. There followed a delightful program in which Jane Huffer rendered a violin solo, Louise Helwegen sang "Indian Love Call," Eleanor McAbee played a piano solo, and Rosemary Schreiner played a saxophone arrangement. The entire group enjoyed the singing of Girl Reserve songs.

The mothers were presented with violet corsages made by the girls.

SEVENTY-SIX SENIORS TO GRADUATE, JUNE 4

Circleville's Seventy-sixth Annual Commencement Exercises for the 76 members of the Senior class will be held in the high school auditorium on Thursday, June 4.

On the program for the occasion will be numbers by the High School orchestra and also by a Senior chorus of mixed voices. There will be speeches by the Valedictorian and Salutatorian.

The class orators, one of which was selected by a vote of the class, and the other by the members of the faculty, will be George Rader and Richard Harman.

Mr. Roger, High School principal will make all class awards and Mr. Fischer, Superintendent of Schools, will give a short address.

The president of the Board of Education, Mr. Charles H. May, will give the members of the Graduating class their diplomas.

After a careful tabulation and check of the four year grades, Alice Griner was named Valedictorian and Matilda Davis was given the place of Salutatorian, for the highest scholastic achievement of the class. The point average for the four years for the Valedictorian was 94.66 percent while the average of the Salutatorian was 93.94 percent.

The Kiwanis club, following and annual custom, will present a gold key both to the outstanding Senior boy and the outstanding Senior girl. These students will be selected by a point system determined from scholastic achievement and extra-curricula activities.

"SENIOR DAY" IS SET FOR TUESDAY, JUNE 2

June 2 is a day that will probably be remembered by the young days of all concerned.

This day has been set off as "Senior day." All graduates of Circleville high school will recall "Senior Day" is the day set aside when the upperclassmen may get all their "foolishness" out.

As has been noted in the past years the students dress in all sorts of costumes, some of them bring doll babies, some bring a sack of all-day suckers and spend the day with a sucker in their mouth (this comes in handy when you are called on in class, the sucker just won't pull off the roof of your mouth).

This year it has been rumored that the Seniors will present a show that will be very novel.

FRESHMEN BOYS SHOW THEIR ABILITY MONDAY

If one could have been present at a private singing lesson Monday afternoon he would probably have been astounded at the volume that could emanate from the lungs of five freshmen boys.

When Miss Priest, music teacher, was doubtful as to whether these five boys could open their mouths she invited them or rather insisted that they have a private singing lesson after school.

Mr. Watts, chemistry teacher, was invited to be the guest, conductor because of his stellar singing abilities.

When the boys assembled the chemist had great difficulties in getting their mouths to open. First, the boys standing at the end would make a sound, then there would come a "squeak" from the middle boy.

A few more classical songs were passed over in "squeak fashion," and Mr. Watts became utterly disgusted. He gave an order to the pianist to play "Swanee River." The boys all opened their mouths and he heard one of the greatest outbursts of harmony that has ever been noted in history.

MEDRETH BACH HEADS JUNIOR GIRL RESERVES

Officers for the coming year were elected Wednesday afternoon at the meeting of the Junior Girl reserves.

Medreth Bach will serve as president and Ruth Clark as vice-president. Mary Elly will take the office of treasurer.

The newly elected officers will have charge of the meeting next week, at which plans will be completed for going swimming at the Y. W. C. A. pool in Columbus.

The out-going officers are president, Ruth Robinson; vice president, Harriet Harman; and secretary-treasurer, Emily Gunning. Miss Hitler is the advisor of the group.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY PRESENTED ON 20, 22

If you have become tired of reading stories and viewing motion pictures whose plots deal with present day problems with which you are surrounded, then the Senior class play, "The Swain," which will be produced May 20 and 22, should gain your approval.

The setting for the Senior play is in a European castle as little over ten years ago.

Unlike plays previously presented here, some of the boys' parts are taken by girls. Dorothy Beatty and Marvina Wallace play the part of the young princes, George and Arsene.

The principal character in the third act, Princess Maria Dominica, played by Alison Skipworth in the Broadway production of this play, is portrayed by Tillie Davis.

Anne Vreborst very ably portrays the title role.

Very elaborate properties have been procured for this play. The Clifton Theatre has loaned their stage set. The Circleville Furniture Company has loaned most of the furniture used in the play. The many other individuals and business houses who have also aided considerably in the production of this play will be given on the printed programs to be distributed the nights of the play. Without their help, the capable directorship of Mr. Roy H. Bowen and his assistant, Miss Evelyn Wolfe, the untiring work of the cast and the any Senior class member. Reservation staff. It would be impossible to present this play.

Tickets can be obtained from ed seat tickets go on sale Monday, May 18, at Hamilton and Ryan Drug Store.

Jesus Inspires Honesty

As Jesus was passing through Jericho to die in Jerusalem, Zaccheus, the chief tax gatherer of the district, wanted to see him. Being short of stature, he climbed up into a sycamore tree to see over the crowd.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Luke 19:1-48

Jesus called Zaccheus to come down and take him to his home. While there Zaccheus became a Christian and offered to restore any ill-gotten wealth he had and to give half of all he had to the poor, for which Jesus commended him.

Jesus told a story of a man going upon a journey who divided his wealth among his servants. On his return he rewarded the faithful ones but rebuked one who had failed to make use of what had been entrusted him.

Upon entering the temple Jesus drove out those who were changing money and selling animals for sacrifice. He said, "My house is a house of prayer, but ye have made it a den of robbers." (GOLDEN TEXT—Exodus 26:15)

CHURCH BRIEFS

Rev. Herman A. Sayre of the Methodist church will discuss the General Conference work at Wednesday's midweek service at 7:30 o'clock. The M. E. choir will practice at 7:30 o'clock Thursday.

Poems That Live

RESIGNATION

Why, why repine, my pensive friend,
At pleasures slipped away?
Some stern fates will never lend,
And all refuse to stay.

I see the rainbow in the sky,
The dew upon the grass;
I see them, and I ask not why
They glimmer or they pass.

With folded arms I linger not
To call them back; twice vain,
In this, or in some other spot,
I know they'll shine again.
—Walter Savage Landor.

BLACK SHEEP

From their folded mates they wander far,
Their ways seem harsh and wild;
They follow the beck of a baleful star,
Their paths are dream beguiled.

Yet haply they sought but a wider range,
Some loftier mountain-slope,
And little recked of the country strange
Beyond the gates of hope.

And haply a bell with a luring call
Summoned their feet to tread Midst the cruel rocks, where the deep pitfall
And the lurking snare are spread.

Maybe, in spite of their tameless days
Of outcast liberty,
They're sick at heart for the homely ways
Where their gathered brothers be.

And off at night, when the plans fall dark,
And the hills loom large and dim
For the Shepherd's voice they mutely hark,
And their souls go out to him.

Meanwhile, "Black sheep! black sheep!" we cry,
Safe in the inner fold;
And maybe, they hear, and wonder why,
And marvel, out in the cold.
—Richard Burton.

Dinner Stories

IN NEVADA

An Englishman visiting a friend in Nevada suggested one morning shortly after his arrival that they take a stroll to a mountain visible from his friend's home.

With secret mirth, his host agreed, but after walking several hours, the Englishman was amazed to find the mountain apparently no nearer. Upon asking his friend how far the mountain was from them, he was astonished to learn that it was still 30 miles away. His host then explained that the Nevada air is so rare that distances are deceptive.

Returning home by a different route, they came to an irrigated field, and at the first ditch, the Englishman sat down and to his host's surprise, began to remove his shoes.

"What on earth are you doing?" the host asked.

The Englishman, gravely contemplating the ditch, replied, "Why, I'm going to swim this river!"

Nothing surprises us very much any more, though we must admit that the announcement by a culinary expert that Irish stew is not Irish is rather disconcerting.

Jesus Inspires Honesty

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for May 17 is Luke 19:1-48, especially verses 1-10, 45-48, the Golden Text being Exodus 20:15, "Thou shalt not steal.")

The nearness of our Lord to his teaching in this chapter which Luke emphasizes by such repeated time notes as this, "Because he was nigh to Jerusalem, and because they supposed that the Kingdom of God was immediately to appear," "He went on before, going up to Jerusalem." No teaching uttered at such a time can fail to register its importance.

Zaccheus Learns Honesty

Zaccheus was not only a publican as Matthew had been, but he was "a chief publican, and he was rich." From all we learn elsewhere about Rome's tax-gatherers, it is fair to presume that Zaccheus had not enriched himself fairly and honestly. He was therefore probably the most cordially hated citizen of Jericho. All his riches must have left him miserable and spiritually hungry for money, especially ill-gotten gain, cannot bring contentment and happiness.

So when Jesus passed through Jericho on his way to Jerusalem to die, Zaccheus "sought to see Jesus who he was; and could not for the crowd, because he was little of stature. And he ran on before and climbed up into a sycamore tree to see him; for he was to pass that way." He was determined that no difficulty should defeat his interest in Jesus. He was willing to seem ridiculous to the crowd if only he may see the great Teacher of righteousness who was interested in saving publicans and sinners such as himself. And no such earnest interest in Jesus fails of its reward. For "When Jesus came to the place, he looked up, and said unto him, Zaccheus, make haste, and come down; for today I must abide at thy house. And he made haste, and came down, and received him joyfully."

The Temple Cleansed

Where this can be seen, his every appeal of love, his only resort is to indignation and condemnation. To this he succeeded as "he entered into the temple, and began to cast out them that sold, saying, It is written, My house shall be a house of prayer; but ye have made it a den of thieves."

The question now is whether the World will permit Ethiopia to become a monument to an ex-anarchist who murdered his way to power in one Nation and then pillaged another. The question mark belongs after "ex."

COUNTY FOR ROOSEVELT
PICKAWAY-CO proved last week that the Roosevelt administration continues to be popular. The majority it gave the president in his contest with Col. Henry Breckinridge, New York opponent of the New Deal, was enlightening. The county, traditionally Democratic for many, many years, upheld President Roosevelt with a fine vote. It helped assure him Ohio's 52 delegates at the National Convention. The nation's chief executive deserves Pickaway-co's support. His administration has been a benefit to the community. Many projects have been completed that never could have been without help of the federal government. A number of Circleville and Pickaway-co residents have obtained splendid positions in the administration.
 Pickaway-co SHOULD support the president,
 and it WILL support him in November.

THE REAL PUBLIC ENEMIES
ONE excellent lesson to be drawn from the detection and arrest of Alvin Karpis, latest Public Enemy No. 1, is that these much-publicized gangsters are not as menacing as commonly portrayed.

"We took him without firing a shot," casually remarked J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the G-men. "He was scared to death as we closed in on him. He shook all over—his voice, his hands and his knees. That marked him as a dirty, yellow rat."
 Is anything more needed to justify Mr.
 Hoover's observation that the real public enemies are not the gangsters but the politicians who connive with the underworld and seek to block the efforts of reputable prosecuting authorities?

Obviously, the dapper coward who kills from ambush and then cringes when confronted with the arm of the law is far less of a menace to orderly society than is the greedy, partisan without whose protective influence the more serious depredations would be impossible.

Young Wild West Zionscheck has been voted a five months' suspension, until Halloween, by his fellow Democrats in the home constituency.

We suppose the treaty of Versailles still has a certain value by reason of the importance of the autographs thereon.

Yet all the mess of oratory, argument,
 talk of justice and sacred principles boils down to three plain words: "We want money."

We still expect something for nothing.
 The only different is that we expect it from the Government instead of the stock market.

World At A Glance

The meptitude of the Republican management in shaping the preliminaries of the G. O. P.'s coming campaign is the subject of much astonished comment in political circles.

In the past the Democrats generally have been the folk who have bungled.

The Republicans have had a reputation as very able strategists.
 Now their fingers all seem to be thumbs.

Individual candidacies for the
 G. O. P. presidential nomination are being handled judiciously enough. For example, Governor Alf
 M. Landon of Kansas appears to be an extremely crafty aspirant.

Colonel Frank Knox undoubtedly has done the best he could for himself. Senator William E. Borah of Idaho has committed no serious
 "faux pas." Senator Arthur H.
 Vandenberg of Michigan is a good dark horse.

It isn't the candidates, separatists, who are so persistently falling over their own feet.

It's the Republican organization, collectively.

USED TO IT
 Apparently the trouble with

 tomed to a minority.

They have been beat-

LANDON LIBERAL?

WASHINGTON—A group of Western Republican leaders in Congress have been asked to support platform planks and recommendations to Governor Alf Landon.
 They are told that the Kansas Governor will fight for the adoption of a liberal platform at the Cleveland convention, and wants all the help he can get. . . . Supporters of the Wagner-Elbogen low-cost housing bill are accusing RFC Chairman Jesse Jones of secretly sabotaging the measure in the House. They assert he persuaded Chairman T. Alan Goldsborough, of the Banking Committee, not to hold hearings on the bill. . . . The National Youth Administration is paying out $15 a month to 121,000 college undergraduates, $30 a month to 5,121 graduate students and $6
 a month to 245,000 high-school students.
 . . . In 1932 Dan Tobin, head of the Teamsters' Union, chairmanned the Roosevelt
 Labor Campaign Committee, and Big Jim
 Farley would like him to repeat this year.
 But the laborite is so irked by the Non-partisan Labor League, recently organized by Major George Berry and John L. Lewis that he is telling friends he will withhold decision until he sees the platform of the two parties adopt. . . . According to Harold Ambrose, Post Office Department pres-chief, the mail service earns $4,000 in revenue every minute of the day.

Secretary Dan Roper is concocting a grandiose plan for a trade mission to South America, consisting of a large delegation of American businessmen and Commerce Department trade experts, headed by himself. How this scheme will set with Secretary of State Hull, who is working out the details of the forthcoming Pan-American Peace Conference, remains to be seen.

NEW TOWNSEND PLAN

Townsend insiders have dropped hints in-friendly quarters on Capitol Hill that far-reaching changes in their old-age pension scheme are under consideration. As outlined to one Congressional leader, the new plan would reduce the monthly pension from $200 to $60 or $70, but also lower the minimum age from 65 years down to 50 or 55. . . . Senator Hugo Black's latest bill, which makes it a punishable offense for a government employee to seek the aid of a member of Congress in obtaining promotion, has received no support from either the Administration or the organized federal employees' groups. . . . The Anti-Trust Division of the Justice Department is seeking a $100,000 grant organizing a staff of economists, who would delve into the inner workings of corporations under fire in anti-trust actions. Assistant Attorney General John Dickinson, in charge of the Division, denies they would be a new type of G-men, asserts that the purpose of the desired agency is strictly research and not law enforcement. . . . President Roosevelt has privately appealed to Senator Burt Wheeler and Representative Sam Rayburn, chairman of the Senate and House Interstate Commerce Committees, to push a measure extending the office of Rail Coordinator Joseph B. Eastman for another year. Such extension is opposed by the railroads, by members of the Interstate Commerce Commission and by some of the railroad unions.

UNPOPULAR FRIENDS
 The Republican organization has permitted itself to acquire some unpopular friends too.

The American Liberty League
 the National Association of Manufacturers, the United States Chamber of Commerce—among others.
 They have cash for campaign funds, but they do not make voters. They count, by reason of their influence, in a convention, but no
 in ballots, at the polls.

Labor, obviously, is pro-New Deal.

President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers and its affiliated unions, for industrial unionization, declared some time ago for the Roosevelt program. The
 A. F. of L. has been dragged through President William Green's admission, into the same group.

It would not have occurred except for the Republican committee's maladroit management.

STEWART'S VIEW
 Labor, formerly Republican, now is pro-New Deal.

Agriculture ditto.
 With intelligent campaign management it could have been argued the other way.

THE CAMDEN RUBY MURDER

ADAM BLISS

CHAPTER 45

ADAM BLISS
 IDLY I PICKED UP a magazine
 as Keyes and I sat in Mrs. Bryce's apartment. It turned out to be a theater magazine of some sort.
 Turning the leaves, dipping them
 rather, to kill time, for I had no desire to go through Mrs. Bryce's things with Keyes, I found myself staring at a full page picture of Margalo. Her strong, beautiful, intelligent eyes looked straight into mine.
 Poor Margalo! My eyes filled with tears. I couldn't help it. Margalo dead, and the portrait was so alive,
 so full of vitality. Her lovely, luxuriant hair was coiled around her head in the old familiar way. A half-smile was on her lips. It was a splendid likeness, more youthful than she was, but her marvelous energy gleamed on the paper.
 I sat with it for some time. I don't know how long. Then, heartsick, I turned some more pages, seeing nothing on them, thinking of nothing but Margalo, and her tragedy. Again, although I did not seek it, her portrait was in front of me.
 It was as if I should look at it, see
 it. I should not turn to another page.
 With a start I came to myself.
 Queer how the pages, when one ran through them quickly, stopped with Margalo. Her picture was in the middle of the magazine. Evidently someone had been studying the photograph carefully. Had studied it so many times, that the book opened there automatically. I looked at the white border. It was clear but slightly mused, as if fingers had come over it many times. Not smudged, mind you, but the way magazines look when they have been read many times.
 The other pages were free of this.
 I looked on the cover. It held no name. Probably purchased at a newsstand. October number. Had Mrs.
 Bryce bought it before the murder or after? I wondered vaguely if she had seen Margalo. In "What Every Woman Knows."
 There were more magazines on the stand beside me. I picked them over carefully. The Green Book was among them. As I remembered it contained a picture of Margalo. I had it, too, in my rooms at the hotel.
 Quickly I turned to the page, the corner of which was creased down, carefully, as if the person who had looked at it had wanted to be sure to find the place again.
 My interest grew. Mrs. Bryce made no secret of her admiration. If that was what it was, of Margalo.
 I went through every magazine in the living room but these were the only ones which contained photographs of Margalo.
 The thought came to me stronger and stronger that Mrs. Bryce had had some purpose in turning down that particular page in the Green Book, although at the time I could not imagine why she should. Abnormal interest in Margalo? Both marriages had been on the stands
 the end of September. Had Mrs.
 Bryce bought them then, or later—
 within the last few days? I determined to ask Manda.
 It was then that I noticed a large Florentine tooled portfolio, a lovely thing. I was admiring the intricacy of its design when I opened it and found it held theater programs. I smiled. So Mrs. Bryce kept her theater programs. Women didn't usually do that any more. They tossed them away after the first act. Mrs.
 Bryce was decidedly different in this respect. Perhaps as a girl she had saved dance programs, and this collection might have followed her, now in her middle age.
 Yet there was so little in her life.
 Practically no friends, not even acquaintances if I could believe Mrs.
 Taft. The theater was probably the biggest event in her life.
 I finally found one that interested me.
 "What Every Woman Knows." So
 Mrs. Bryce had seen Margalo!
 I was not surprised at the program. The play was a popular revival, and all theatergoers had been interested in it. Margalo, alone, as Maggie Shand, was more than enough to draw them. Margalo in a Barry play. I remembered how her performance had affected me. . . .
 The date was what startled me.
 Monday night, Oct. 16. Why, I had been at that performance! So had Van Every! The night Margalo had been murdered. Was it possible that he had gone with Mrs. Bryce, had put her in a taxi, and then had come back to me?
 He had said nothing about having anyone with him. Indeed, I imagined he was alone. I knew he loved the theater and went often. His only relaxation, he always said. Had he known Mrs. Bryce was there, too?

 Had he said nothing about it purposefully?

Strange this coincidence.
 I took out the program, along with the two magazines, and when Keyes came back, silently handed them to him.

"Van Every was alone Monday night? That's what you said, didn't you?" he flung at me, as he glanced at the program, taking in the date immediately.

"If Mrs. Bryce saw him come from the stage entrance with you and Margalo—we have a good jealousy angle," he muttered. "Very good. I wonder if she spies on him by any chance."

"I think he would have seen her if she had come with him—probably would have taken her home."
 "I don't know. You remember he wasn't introducing her around any too prominently."

I pointed out that the pages which contained photographs of Margalo had seemed to interest Mrs. Bryce.
 He nodded at this, and examined them carefully.

Manda, of course, could not remember when her mistress had bought the books. She thought Mrs. Bryce bought them every month. She was a great magazine reader. Bought everything.

"Should we go?" I asked impatiently.
 "I'm going to stay. If you wish you can, too."

"How long?"
 "At least until Mrs. Bryce comes."
 This frightened me, mainly because I thought Van Every would come in with her and be furious at our intrusion. However, at midnight, we heard a taxi outside, saw Van Every jump out, escort her up the steps and get back into the car.

She came in, surprised of course to see us.
 "We've been waiting for you, Mrs.
 Bryce. Keyes announced cordly.
 Neither greeting us nor bidding us go, she threw off her sable cloak, took a cigarette from her bag, and sat down on the couch, first dismissing Manda with a motion of her hand.

Her eyes seemed greener than ever to me, and the lines around her mouth were hard.

"You'll excuse our intrusion, and the search I made of your apartment," Keyes lighted a match and held it to her cigarette.

Slowly she inhaled the cigarette, looking at Keyes all the while. Her silence made me nervous, and I fidgeted a little in my chair. Was she never going to say anything?

She seemed so cold, so hard as she sat there smoking. There was not a tremor in her hands, her body relaxed but defensive.

"I want to know, Mrs. Bryce, what Laura Randall had to say to you Wednesday afternoon when she visited you?"

Again nothing but silence, which the tick of a clock, far off, made all the more startling.

Keyes repeated his question.
 Then she spoke for the first time.
 "And if I do not choose to tell you?"
 "You'll tell me, Mrs. Bryce." He was trying hard to control himself.

 I knew.

"I shall not, Captain Keyes, and I'll be much obliged if you and your friend, Mr. Maughan, will leave. I know you would come tonight.
 I prepared for it. That is why Mr.
 Van Every and I left, so you would have the whole place to yourselves.
 I thought you had had plenty of time for—your work—so I asked Mr.
 Van Every to bring me back."

"You say you prepared for my visit? You realize you left some rather incriminating evidence around?"

"I left everything as it was. I have nothing to hide."
 "You forgot, Mrs. Bryce, that you had left a program of 'What Every Woman Knows.' And that program was for Monday, Oct. 16."

"I'm very youthful about programs.
 I save them. Foolish habit." This was not said flippantly, but very gravely.

"You went to the theater last Monday night?"
 "I did."

"By yourself?"
 "I did."

"You saw Mr. Van Every there?"
 "Yes, and spoke to him at one of the intermissions."

"Yet you did not go with him?"
 "I've already said I did not. I often, almost always in fact, go to the theater alone. Now and then Mr. Van Every goes with me, but not often."

"Now about Laura Randall—Mrs. Bryce was on her feet. 'If that's all, gentlemen, I'll ask to be excused.' There was no rudeness in her tone, indeed, none in the slight inclination of her head, as she turned and left the room.
 Keyes was flabbergasted. Roughly
 I took his arm and piloted him out of the room, picking up our coats and hats on the way. "We can't get anything out of her," I explained, "so we'd better go."
 "Coolheaded piece I've ever seen," he was grumbling as we got into his car. "Too damned cold. Thought I'd break her down—"

"She'll never break down," I declared. "Don't worry about that. I caught her off guard at Gribbel's—don't know how it happened, but she's herself again tonight."

"Maughan, I can't arrest her. She's right. I've nothing on her. I've got to build up a case. And I know her well enough now to know that it's going to be hard, mighty hard. She's watching now, and that's going to make it doubly hard. On her guard.
 If she murdered the two of them,
 Margalo, Younger and Laura Randall, which I think she did, she's smarter than you think."

"I've been telling you all along that the person who murdered Margalo and Laura Randall is smart."

"Cleaned out the whole place because she expected me—"

"She left the program and those magazines."

"Yes, to tantalize me. They mean nothing. She can probably prove she left the theater immediately after the performance."

This was followed by the "Song of the Shepherd Levi" by Rinsky Korsakoff sung by Mrs. Melvin Yates. She used for her second number "A May Day Carol" by Deems Taylor.

Several high school pupils then presented a one-act play entitled "Ghosts" which was very well received. Those taking part were Richard Harmon, Anne Vreelbome, James Henderson, Ned Harden, and Harold Grant.

The speaker for the evening, Carson Horton of Columbus, gave a very interesting address on the subject "Some Casual Factors in Juvenile Delinquency." Mr. Horton is Professor at Franklin University and a teacher of trades.

Refreshments were served at the close of the program. Mrs. Harry Heffner was chairman of the program committee and Mrs. Frank J. Bennett of the lunch committee.

No meetings will be held during the summer months but committees were appointed for September, as follows: program, Mrs. Eva Dresbach, chairman, Mrs. Irvin Boggs, Mrs. Robert Colville, Mrs. Earl Lutz, Mrs. Will Mack, Mrs. G. Girl Reserves Entertain

The closing weeks of school are always dotted with many parties for the students and one of the nicest of these was the annual Mother-Daughter banquet given by the Junior Girl Reserves Friday evening at the Wardell Party home.

Fifty-eight guests enjoyed this lovely affair.

The home was attractive in large baskets of blue iris and the small tables each held a bud vase of the same flowers. Favors at the places of the girls were corsages of violets and lilies-of-the-valley.

FROCKS WITH GOOD LINES GIVE LONGER SERVICE BECAUSE THEY'RE ALWAYS CHIC

Styles Last Into New Season

By LISBETH

HOW DO you choose your frocks? Do you pick 'em because they are smart at the moment, without a thought of whether the style will be good a couple of months from now?

Now here are three little frocks that I will guarantee will be smart all summer and that you will dig out of the wrappings next year and heave a sigh of relief that you have something to wear until you have a chance to see what you want.

The first, left, worn by Marshall Hunt, screen player, is for afternoon. It is a crepe in persimmon red with narrow pleats across the front of the skirt, and a hip-length blouse that reflects the pleated treatment of the skirt. The sleeves are three-quarters length and full, but are drawn into a tight cuff of white pique at the wrist. This pique is also used for a gilet or vest down the front. A cluster of lacquered flowers at the neckline carries out the white accent. It's a good choice for wear now, occasionally all summer, and I bet you'll be wearing it again when the fall weather sets in.

Simple, but "Good!" A simple little frock with good lines, like the one shown center and worn by Barbara Stanwyck, is a "thing of beauty and a joy forever." It's a sports model of white silk crepe printed with a tiny figure in brown and green, and is made with a double-breasted effect with tiny brown buttons set far apart in a double row, five to a row, and matched by the two buttons on the self-material belt, making six in all. A brown silk ascot tucked into the neck of the dress, brown gloves and white linen hat and shoes complete a very satisfactory ensemble.

If you like wool—and it now is good for all year—round you will choose the very lightweight wool frock shown right and worn by Joy Hodges, also a screen player. This dress is a two-piece. The sleeves are cut in one piece, and are trimmed with several rows of stitching in the color. The collarless neckline also uses this trimming feature, as do belt and pocket. Buttons and buckle of wood painted a matching tile add to the bright contrasting note.

Pecan Replacing Walnut

LOS ANGELES.—The pecan is becoming a strong competitor of the walnut on the American nut market, according to Dallas W. Smythe of the University of California. He predicts that by 1940 the pecan crop in the United States will reach 35,000 tons annually.

Greta Garbo Poses—Willingly

CONSENTING for the first time to an arranged interview Greta Garbo, elusive screen star, is pictured posing willingly following her arrival in New York from a year's vacation in her native Sweden. Nervous and pale, due to illness, the actress answered questions in this manner: "I have no home—I am just a wanderer. I don't enjoy my year in Sweden—how can you enjoy yourself when you have been sick—it was something—well like the grippe—I am glad to be back."

SENIORS VISIT HOSPITAL

TUESDAY AFTERNOON

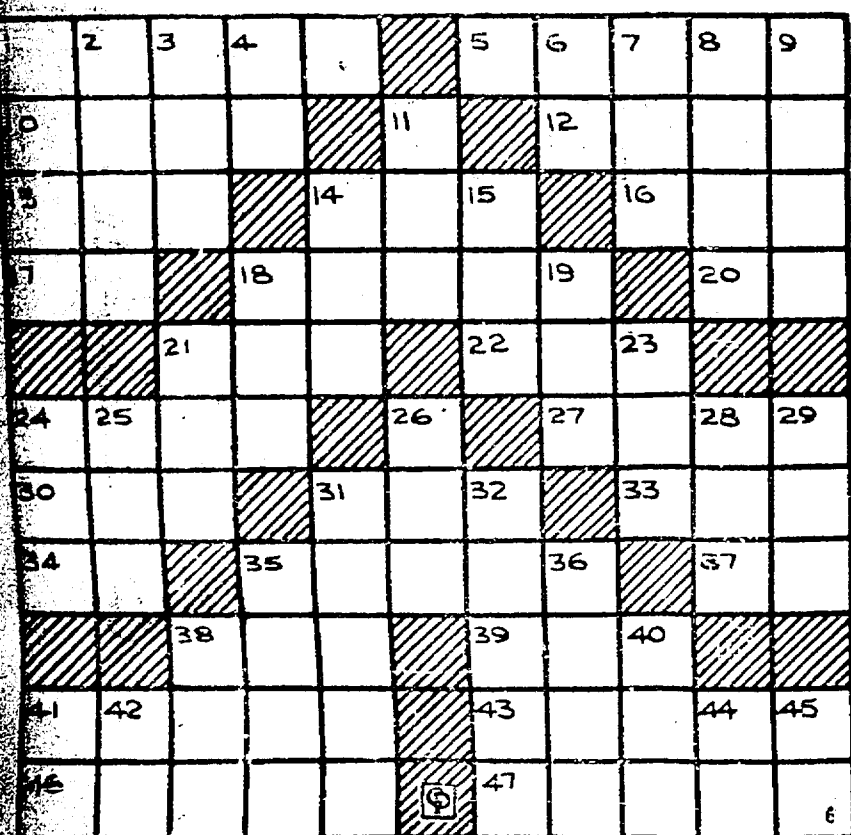

Tuesday afternoon Senior students of Circleville high school viewed the various parts of Berger hospital.

The students were shown the x-ray machines, the operating room and the various tools used in operations, charts with all of the possible splints and molds that are used for broken bones, and many other things of interest to them all.

The students, having viewed the various facilities of the hospital, were convinced that they have nothing to fear about a modern hospital.

SOFTBALL LEAGUE NAMES HAMMEL NEW PRESIDENT

Season to Open Monday, May 25, With Cities Service and Given Oils Playing

The softball league will open on the Southern Ohio Electric Co. field Monday, May 25, with the Cities Service Oils and the Given Oils battling. The game will start at 8:30 o'clock.

Managers of five of the six teams met Friday evening and elected George E. Hammel as president and treasurer, Joe Glitt secretary, and Harry Steinhilber field manager. Frank Lynch, who served the last several years, declined another year of the presidency.

Teams in the league include Eshelman Feeds, managed by Carl Purcell; Cities Service Oils, managed by Loring Davis; Given Oils, managed by Alfred Jones; F. O. E. Oils, managed by Nelson Garner; Chedeville Oils, managed by Dick Robinson; and Pickaway Dairy, managed by Byron Eby and Joe Glitt.

Other Teams Scheduled

On May 26, the Circleville Oils and Eshelman Feeds will tangle, and May 27 the Pickaway Dairy and F. O. E. will mix.

Each team is to consist of 12 players and a playing manager. The league is limited to the city unless a rural player works in the city two weeks before he starts to participate. All players must sign contracts and after signing cannot play with another team unless released, traded or sold. If a player is released "dishonorably" he must hand in his suit to the league, and is suspended for the remainder of the year.

The president and all managers will comprise an arbitrary board to decide all disputes.

Outsman Ball Voted

Four of the managers voted for the outsman ball; one opposed it. Each team must toss in a new ball for each game, the balls to be bought from one firm so a league trophy can be obtained. Each team must buy a mask for his catcher, the league to furnish one for the umpire.

A split season will be played with a championship playoff at the end of the year. If one team should win both halves, an all-star team will be picked by the other five managers to participate in the playoff.

All games must be started within 10 minutes after 6:30 or the team having too few players will forfeit.

An entrance fee of $5 must be paid before the first game is played. The Eagles and the Eshelman team paid their money Friday evening. Any firm interested in selling the league balls should attend the next meeting next Friday evening. Any persons interested in umpiring at 50 cents a game should submit his name.

The year's first practice game will put the Eshelman Feeds and the Pickaway Dairy crew together Monday evening. For practice games during the week, managers must see Harry Steinhilber.

PUERTA RICAN FIGHTER LOOMS AS CONTENDER

NEW YORK, May 16.—(UP)—Pedro Montañez, the Puerto Rican lightweight, looked as the foremost contender for Champion Tony Canzoneri's crown today after outpointing Tony's stablemate, Leonard Del Genio in a 10-rounder here last night.

Bottles were thrown and four men arrested during the bout as irate fans protested Montañez' tactics. More than 8,000 in Madison Square Garden booed as the Puerto Rican apparently held Del Genio and doubled him up with smashing left hooks to the stomach.

Montañez weighed 133; Del Genio, 128½.

About This And That In Many Sports

Many Wars Waged

WAR AND PEACE are the words of the baseball diamond at the major leagues. Casey Stengel, Leo Durocher, Bill Terry, Johnny Allen and other gladiators promise more action this summer than will be seen in the nation's boxing rings.

Stengel, Stengel, Stengel—comic manager of the Dodgers, has two wars on his hands, with Lippy Leo Durocher of the Cards and Bill Terry of the Giants. The Stengel-Terry bout is a hold-over from last year, postponed many times because of interference. The affair with Durocher is just a side issue, a sort of hobby with Casey.

Durocher is one of the best bench jockeys in the National league. He can give and take verbally with the smartest of them, but Jimmy Dykes holds a decision over him. Once when Dykes was with the Athletics and Durocher with the Yankees, Dykes cut Durocher in two by branding him the "All-American out."

Fun and All That

Stengel is a lad who loves his joke, but he can be very earnest at times. The first time he stole a base in the majors he knocked Johnny Evers for a loop, and when the little Trojan reminded him that he was building himself up for a flock of spikes, the raw rookie replied that he was going to be around and about in the league for a long time and Evers could learn to like it or lose it.

Stengel is not particular about size. He has battled Adolfo Luque, Phil Weinert and Pitcher Appleton, the latter when Appleton was a Brooklyn teammate. In fact, he likes to give away weight, which makes his selection of Durocher as a man to take under the stands sound a bit out of character. Durocher is a bantamweight.

Ride Johnny Allen

Sooner or later Johnny Allen of the Indians is going to be involved in a battle that may not be as funny as most of the baseball quarrels. When Allen flares into anger, he catches fire all over. Three ball clubs have taken up riding Allen as a pastime—the Browns, the Tigers and Yankees. Coaches of each club hurl the charge that he is using the forbidden spitball.

In a recent battle with the Tigers, Allen had to be escorted from the field by a police detail after he had rushed at Del Baker, Tiger third base coach.

The charges precipitated a letter from Cy Slapnicka, Indians' general manager, to Will Harridge, league president, asking that the umpires protect Allen from indiscriminate abuse. A coach or manager has the privilege of asking an umpire to examine the ball at any time if use of the spitball, shine ball or other illegal delivery is suspected. Umpires say they have not caught Allen doctoring the ball. But when an umpire happens across a ball that is scuffed, and throws it out, the impression is created that Johnny is cheating.

The charges make Allen very, very sore, and when he gets that way he quits pitching and wants to fight, and no fooling.

LOSES TO LEARN!

Alabama Battler, Beaten Three Times by Champ, Finally Turns Tables

Petey Sarron... the new champion

NEW YORK, May 16.—Alabama, which gave to the fight world the leading heavyweight contender in the person of Joe Louis, now yields a new champion, Petey Sarron, who learned about fisticuffs by starting the career of newboy in Birmingham when he was six years old.

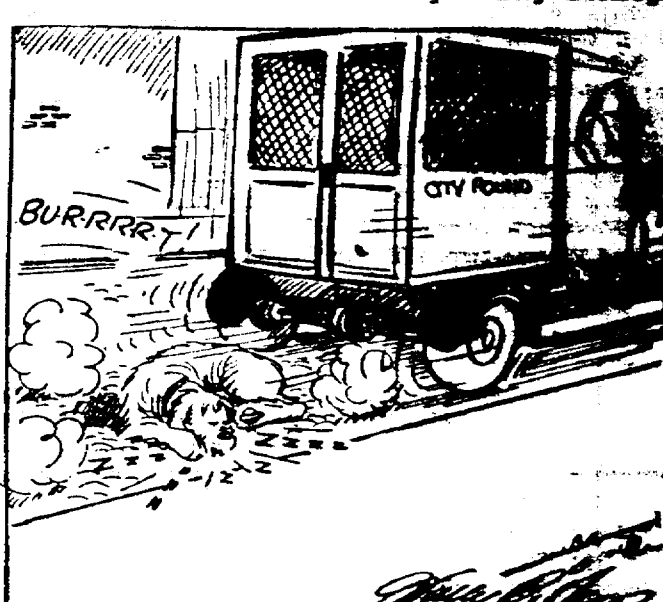

Students of Joe Louis' family tree find that a few generations back there were Indians in the Brown Embalmers' ancestry. Sarron is of Syrian descent, according to the orphanage from where he marched into the world to live by his fists. If there are any Eskimos in Alabama probably you'll hear of them before long.

Sarron's conquest of Freddie Miller, the Cincinnati German who has worn the featherweight championship crown (outside New York) since 1933 when he beat Tommy Paul in Chicago, was not as surprising as might be expected in view of the fact that Miller had met and beaten the Alabama Syrian three times.

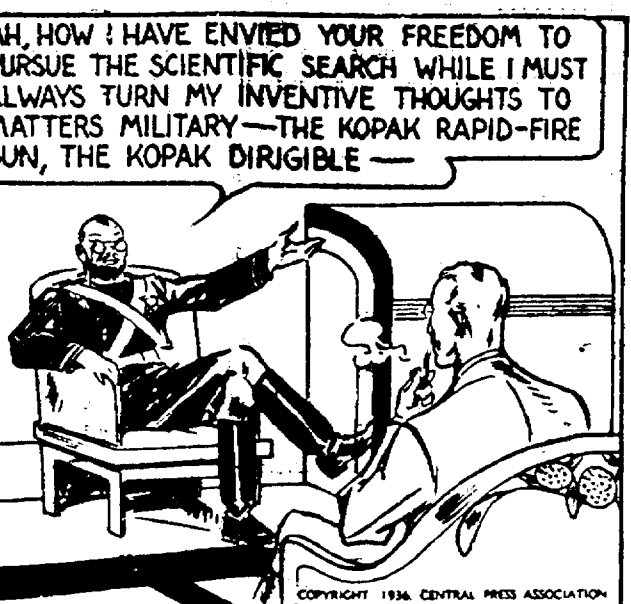

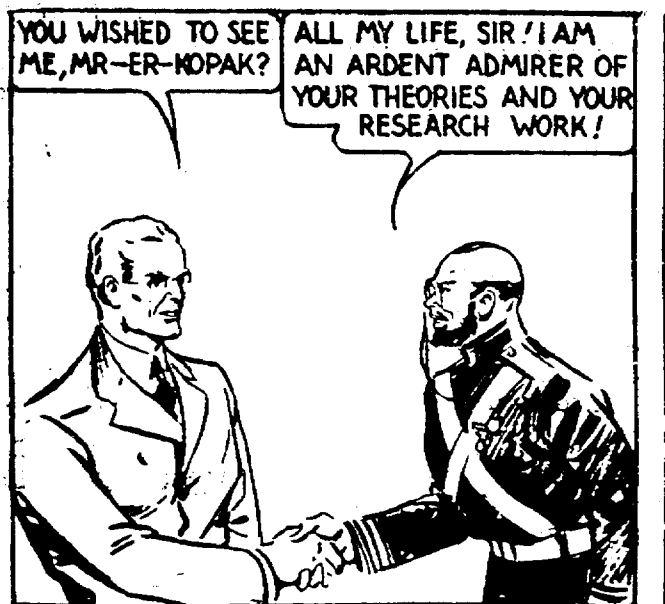

Miller is a southpaw, standing with right foot and right arm extended, an unorthodox and puzzling position. Left-handers in the ring are hard to solve. Benny Leonard, who found Lew Tander one of the most difficult lads he ever boxed, will corroborate that. But there is a way to beat southpaws, and just as Leonard discovered it, after being almost knocked out by Tander, Sarron found the formula after taking three shellackings from the little Ohioan.

Learning how to beat a man by letting him kick you around a few times is not uncommon in boxing. Gene Tunney took a bad beating from Harry Greb before solving the bounding Pittsburgh's style.

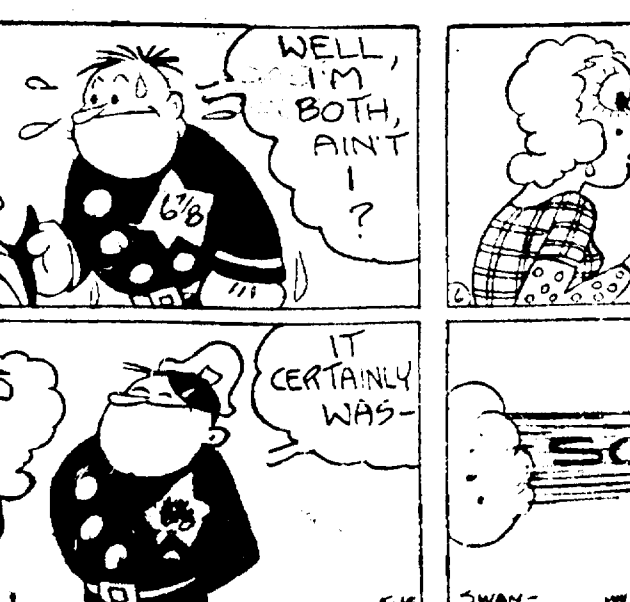

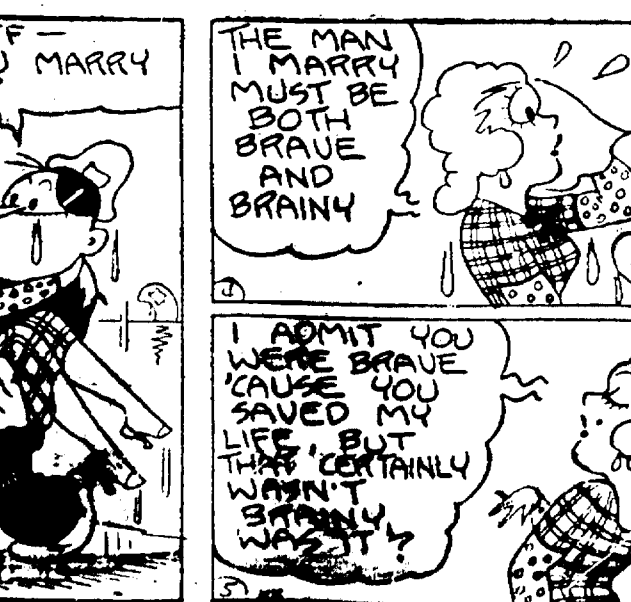

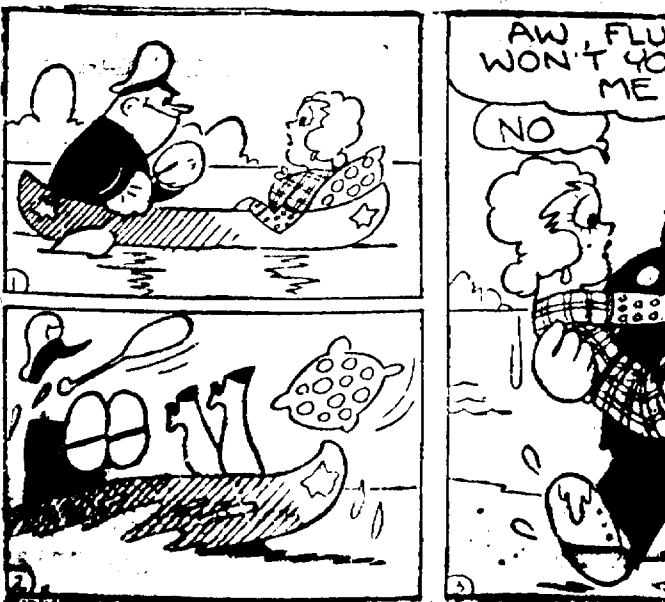

MUGGS MCGINNIS

BRICK BRADFORD

HIGH PRESSURE PETE

Miller fought Sarron once too often. Though he has been fighting 11 years, the new feather champion is not widely known north of the Mason-Dixon line. Broadway observers rate him a better than average journeyman jabber, but point out that his record is not marked by sensational victories over first raters.

Just Another Record

Five years ago he lost to Fidel La Barba after scoring a string of knockouts, and decisions over a dozen fellows named Elmer. Victory over Varian Mulling in 1932 stands out as one of his best fights, but that same year he lost to Charley Von Bechen and fought to a draw with Tommy Paul.

He beat Frankie Wallace and Benny Bass and a few others in 1934, but besides Freddie Miller, Bucky Burter and Lew Feldman took him over the jumps. Last year he did not lose a fight, but he beat no one of any consequence either. His manager, Jimmy Erwin of Washington, has picked his opponents with due regard for his protégé's possibilities.

If Petey means to carry out his promise to be "a fighting champion," there is a grand chance for him to do so. For several years Baby Arizmendi and Mike Beloise have been knocking at the door, demanding championship consideration. Arizmendi is a Mexican (not from Alabama) and two years ago in a bout the New York boxing fathers generously sanctioned as a championship affair, he beat Beloise over a 10-round route, but both must be regarded as contenders.

Plans Law Career

Sarron, who is 28 years old, has ambitions to become a barrister. His law studies have been postponed from time to time while he went about the business of boxing for a living. He has been able to put aside almost enough to start him on his career.

He fared only mildly well financially in the Miller engagement. Of the $40,000 which Washington spent to see the fight, Miller got $10,000 and Sarron received $1,500, which is not very lawyer-like.

But Petey will do better when he defends his title and takes down the champion's end. That's the way those things work out.

MONROE TEAM WINS

Monroe-two high school's baseball team defeated Mt. Sterling, 13 to 11, Friday in a game played at Mt. Sterling. Hill pitched for Monroe and Emrich for Mt. Sterling.

YESTERDAY'S HERO: Dolph Camilli, Philadelphia Phillies first baseman, who had a perfect day at bat, driving in four runs with a homer, a triple and two singles.

What a Pitcher!

MAJOR league scouts, particularly the St. Louis Cardinals, are keeping their optics on Allen Veigel, above, Tascawasco, Ohio high school senior.

Why? Well, because Allen, only 19, has just pitched his seventh no hit-run game in two years. Two this year and five last year. In his latest, Allen, six feet tall and an 180-pounder allowed only one man to reach first and fanned 18 of the 22 batters to face him.

OHIO STATES'S BASEBALL AND GOLF TEAMS BEATEN

CHICAGO, May 16.—(UP)—Ohio State's hapless baseball team moved to South Bend, Ind. today for a game with Notre Dame following a 8 to 7 loss in 10 innings to the University of Chicago here yesterday.

The defeat was the 14th in 17 games this season for the Bucks.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., May 16.—Notre Dame's golf team defeated Ohio State 10½ to 7½ here yesterday. Ohio was to play Northwestern at Evanston today.

$50,000 TO WAGER MILLION IN BIG EASTERN EVENT

BALTIMORE, Md., May 16.—(UP)—When the band strikes up "My Maryland" this afternoon, fourteen or fewer thoroughbreds will parade to the post for the 46th running of the Preakness stakes, one of the nation's most famous horse races.

The race is a mile and three-sixteenths around the oval at Old Pimlico, where George Washington once attended races.

Today nearly 50,000 persons gathered at the old "Hilltop" course to see Bold Venture try to make it a double and add the Preakness to his Kentucky Derby victory.

Track officials predict that more than $1,000,000 will be wagered in the mutuels, making it one of the biggest betting days in Maryland turf history. Last year $888,000 was wagered.

Bold Venture was 8 to 5 in the morning. He will be even shorter when the field breaks in quest of the $75,000 prize and the Woodlawn place.

With favorable weather conditions and a fast track predicted, the winner may crack the Preakness record of 1:58 1-5 for a mile and three-sixteenths set by the Brookmeade stable's High Quest which beat his stablemate, Cavalcade, in an upset in 1934.

LAVERNE FATOR, ONCE FAMED-JOCKEY, DIES

NEW YORK, May 16.—(UP)—Laverne Fator, who ranked with Earle Sande as one of the greatest of American jockeys, died in Jamaica hospital today of injuries suffered when he plunged from a second story window of the hospital while awaiting an operation for appendicitis.

Fator, who won almost $2,500,000 for his employers, had been intermittently delirious since he was admitted to the hospital May 11 with a septic appendix condition that made an immediate operation inadvisable.

In a moment of apparent lucidity yesterday he asked a nurse to get him some medicine. When she returned she found his bed empty, a screen in front of the window cast aside and Fator lying in a courtyard 30 feet below. He had suffered a fractured skull and a broken right leg.

There was a time when Fator was one of the famous names in racing.

Mexico now comes forward with a "Good Friend" policy. Any nation refusing to accept it will be shot at sunrise.

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," based on Joan Fox's famous novel of the same name, marks a milestone in the history of the movies. It is the first picture in which the color was taken as a matter of course, and not as a gimmick, and is subordinated to the story.

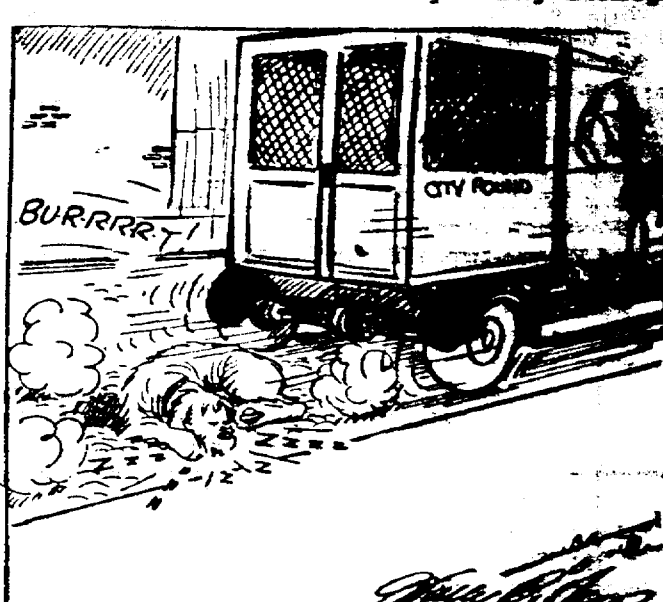

Flimed entirely at the Clifts, California, where the picture most duplicates that of the real thing, the picture is a masterpiece of the new color. The picture is a masterpiece of the new color. The picture is a masterpiece of the new color.
